

Student Health at ISGR

The student health is a statutory part of the school's work and continues the work of Barnavårdscentralen (the child welfare centre) with caring for our children. We contribute with paediatric and psychosocial knowledge and we are the student's occupational health service in the country's largest working place.

The student health is optional and free of cost. The physical and psychosocial well-being of our students is very important to us at ISGR/IHGR. To secure their health we have a student health team (EHT) at every campus. The teams consist of school nurses, school welfare officers, school psychologists, principals, special pedagogues, remedial teachers and student health pedagogues.

In this brochure, you can read more about what the different members of the student health team can help you with, and get an insight into the procedures that follow when it has been noted that a student is in need of extra support.

Here is a brief presentation of the Student Health Team (EHT):

Principal

The principal is responsible for and leads and delegates the work. The principal is also responsible for the development of the student health work at the school.

School nurse

The nurse is responsible for students in need of special support, from a medical point of view. The work focuses on the base programme, but should also support the pedagogical work from a medical perspective. The nurse is also responsible for remedial and supporting measures, emergency measures in case of injuries and accidents, and medical measures to exclude somatic causes for a student's symptoms.

School doctor

The school doctor writes letters of referral to different care institutions and works with evaluation and assessment together with the school nurse. All preschool children are offered to visit the school doctor.

School psychologist

The school psychologist is responsible for students in need of special support, from a psychological point of view. The school psychologist is also responsible for information, primarily regarding developmental psychology, to parents, staff and to the student health. He/she takes part in evaluation and assessment when needed. When in need of extensive treatment, the student is referred to external specialists.

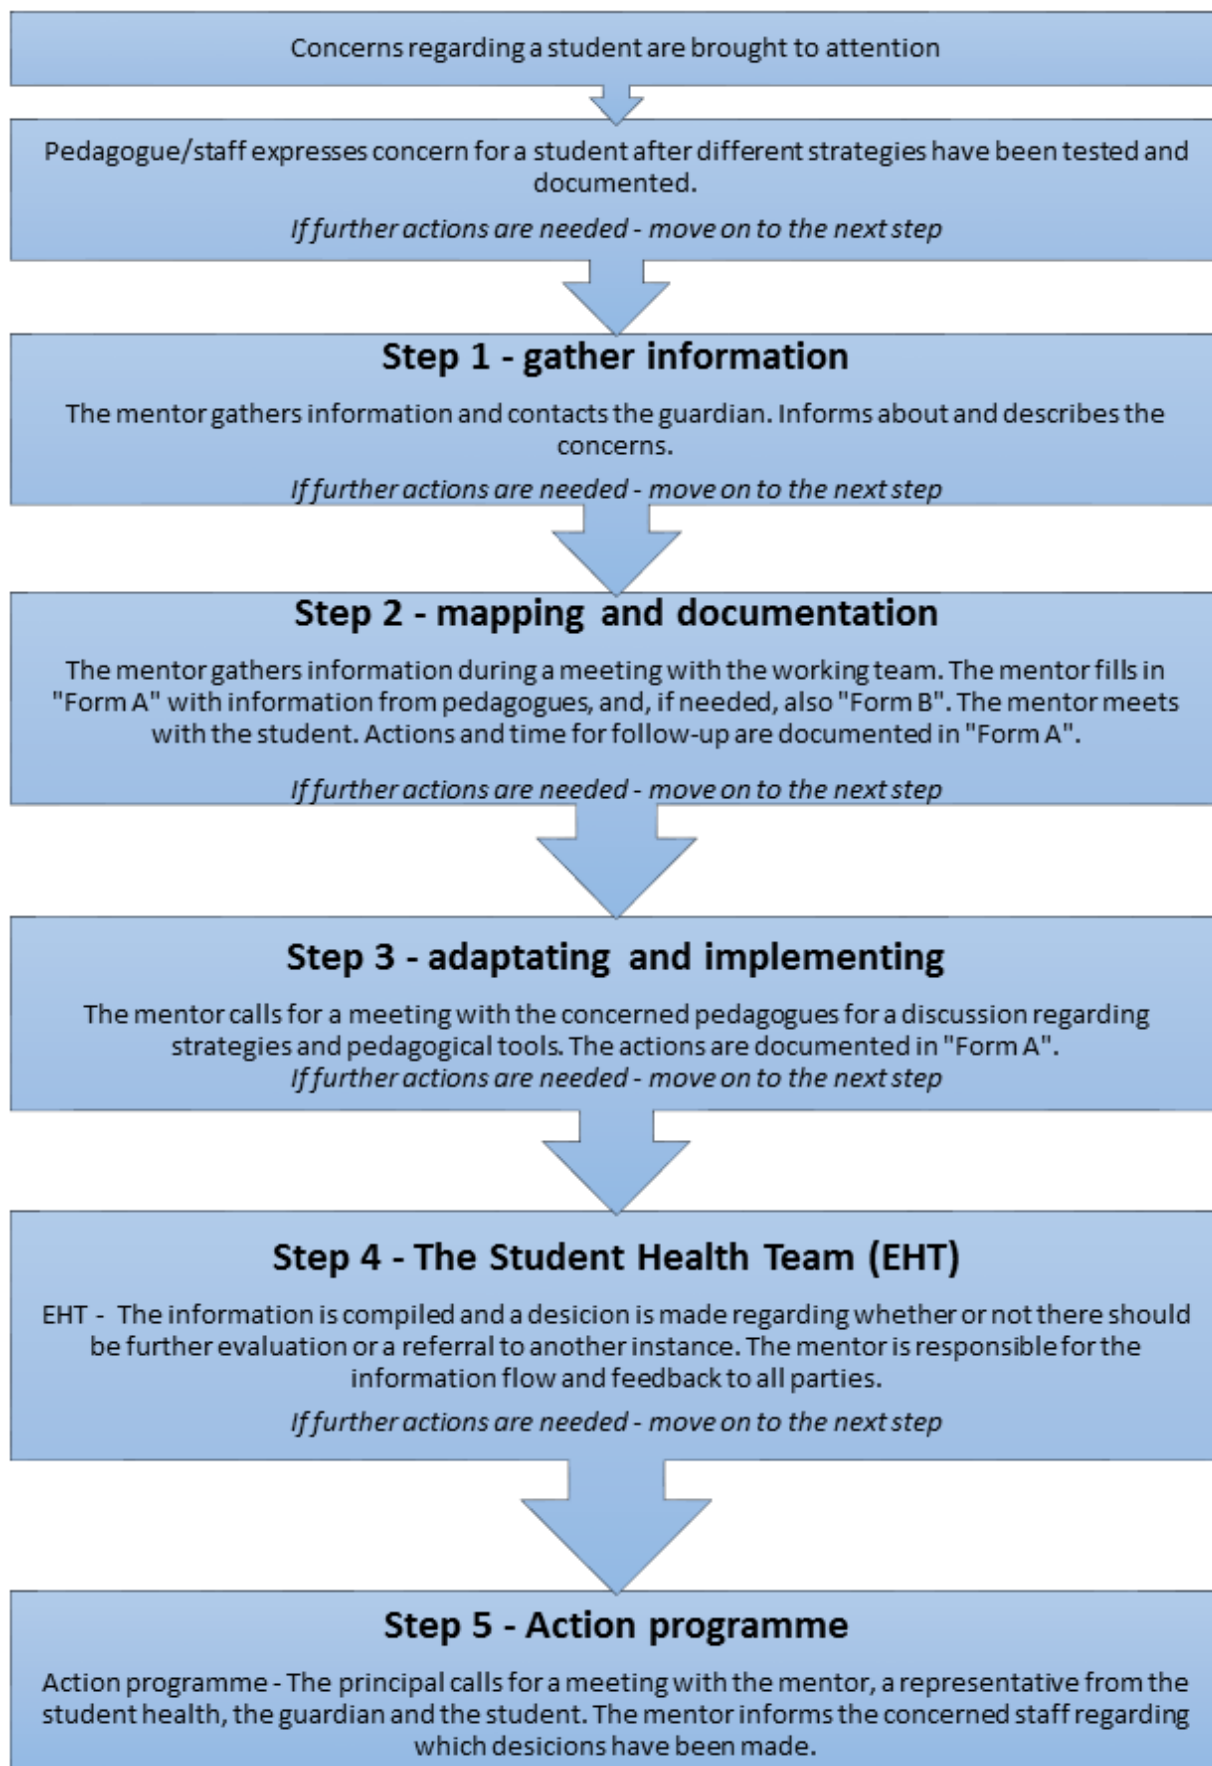

School guidance counselor

The school guidance counselor is responsible for the psychosocial work at the school. The purpose with this work is to promote the students' mental health, but also to help them reach the set educational goals. In addition to professional dialogues with the individual students, the school guidance counselor is responsible for social and emotional group training and for change and development work at the school.

Special pedagogue and remedial teachers

The special pedagogue has a pedagogical responsibility for students in need of special support, and he/she assists the principal in the pedagogical development work. The work is focused on supporting the pedagogical work by affecting the choices of work forms in school so that they are adapted to the student's possibilities and specific needs. He/she also takes part in evaluation and assessment, special pedagogical evaluations and mapping.
